

Social Narrative

Museum of Natural History

In partnership with Autism Nova Scotia

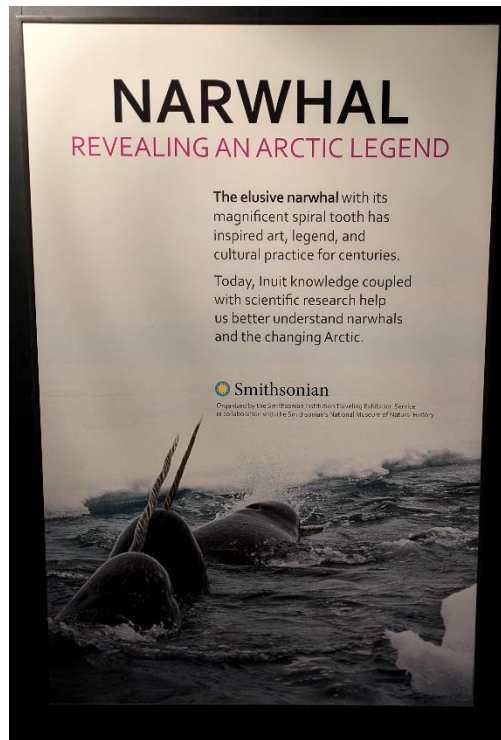

---

Today I am going to visit the Narwhal Revealing An Arctic Legend exhibit at the Museum of Natural History. When I go up the ramp into the galleries, I will turn right and go down a hallway that looks like this:

---

The beginning of the exhibit has a sign that looks like this:

As walk down the hallway I will see a TV screen.

---

I will see a narwhal model in the exhibit with some slowly moving blue lights.

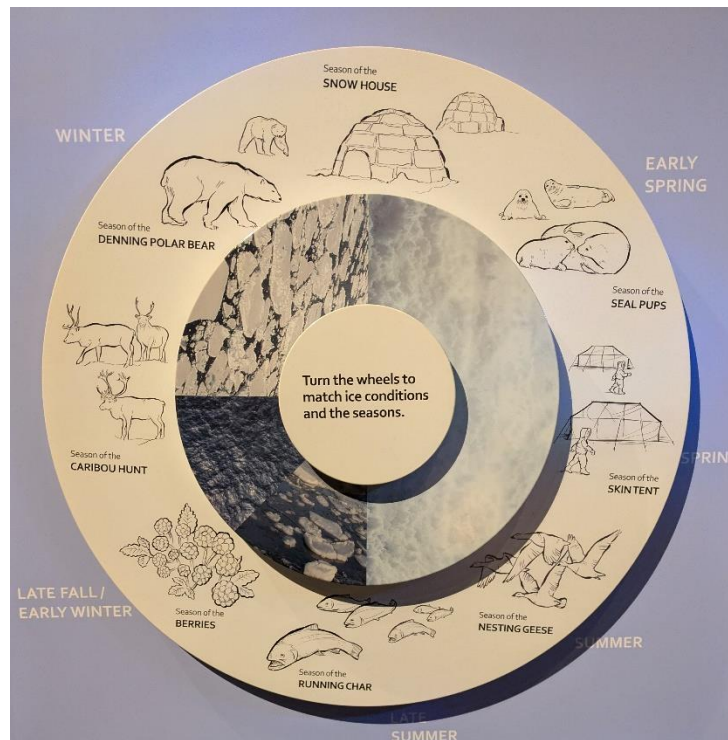

The exhibit is a safe place for me to learn about narwhals. I can take pictures in the museum without using flash.

---

Some things will be behind a barrier or in a glass case to keep them safe. I will follow the museum's rules and not go over the barrier or tap on the case glass.

There are displays that I can touch to learn about narwhals and the arctic.

---

There are seats in the museum if I need to take a rest and I can watch a video.

When I have finished with the Narwhal Revealing An Arctic Legend exhibit, I can visit the rest of the museum.